Join us for an 8-week sewing workshop with RCBC's Fashion Design program at our Mount Holly Campus. This pre-college workshop will allow students to learn basic sewing skills on our Juki sewing and serging machines. This training is absolutely essential if you are preparing to work in the fashion industry or preparing for a college fashion program.

From threading to basic machine stitches, all students will assemble one commercial dress pattern of their choice. This course will also teach a variety of industry machine and hand stitching methods.

Students who are presently in grades 9 to 12 or in a gap year are welcome to register. This program will be taught by Lia Kwon, RCBC Apparel Construction instructor.
