GLOBAL STUDIES

CODE: GLS 101

TITLE: Introduction to Global Studies

DIVISION: Liberal Arts

COURSE DESCRIPTION: This course is an introduction to the interdisciplinary field of Global Studies drawing from a wide range of disciplines such as Anthropology, Geography, Political Science, Sociology, and Economics. It is meant to introduce students to the variety of approaches to international topics in the Social Sciences. The course is both interdisciplinary and multidisciplinary, as students will understand how different disciplines approach global problems and questions, as well as how different disciplines connect with one another or contradict one another in terms of methods and goals. The course will introduce students to major issues in world affairs including poverty, population, environment, armed conflicts, international law and organizations, transnational crime and disease, and processes of globalization in a variety of forms. The main course objective is to provide students with an understanding of the intellectual, cultural, political and economic issues that mark the contemporary processes of globalization. Understanding the global forces that both unite and separate world citizens, students need to develop the global competencies, skills, and understanding to make sense of the highly integrated and interdependent world we live in today.

COURSE ACTIVITIES:

Course activities vary from course to course and instructor to instructor. Below is a listing of some of the activities students can anticipate in this course:

- ▶ Writing assignments: students will analyze current issues in the field using current articles from the popular press as well as library research including electronic resources databases.
- ▶ Speaking assignments: students will present research individually or in groups using current technology to support the presentation (e.g., PowerPoint presentation); students will participate in discussions and debates related to the topics in the lessons. Discussions may also focus on cross-cultural and legal-ethical dilemmas as they relate to the course content.
- ▶ Simulation activities: Trends and issues will analyzed for their ethical as well as social or legal significance. Students might role-play common situations for classmates to analyze. Current news articles may be used to generate discussion.
- ▶ Case Studies: Complex situations and scenarios will be analyzed in cooperative group settings or as homework assignments.
- ▶ Lectures: This format will include question and answer sessions to provide interactivity between students and instructor.
- ▶ Speakers: Representatives from various related fields may be invited to speak.
- ▶ Videos: Related topics will provide impetus for discussion.

EDUCATIONAL TECHNOLOGY:

Rowan College at Burlington County advocates a technology enhanced teaching and learning environment. Advanced technological tools may be used in any course section to facilitate instruction. Many of our sections are web-enhanced, which means that some of your work will be submitted or completed online. Web enhancements may include on-line materials, grade books, testing and quizzes and assignment submission. Many students enjoy the flexibility and convenience that these online enhancements have provided, however if you have concerns about the technology involved, please speak to your instructor immediately.

STUDENT EVALUATIONS:

The student will be evaluated on the degree to which student learning outcomes are achieved. A variety of methods may be used such as tests, quizzes, class participation, projects, homework assignments, presentations, etc.

See individual instructor's course handouts for grading system and criteria (point value for each assessment component in course, e.g. tests, papers, presentations, attendance etc.), number of papers and examinations required in the course, and testing policy including make ups and/or retests.
